THE JOURNAL.

From the Illinois Farmer for September.

Farm of Lewis H. Thomas.

This farm is in Macoupin county, six and a half miles west of Virden. It has been entered for competition and premium with the State Agricultural Society as a grazing farm. We had the pleasure of examining it a few days ago.

The tract consists of a section and a half of land. We think it was entered about '50 or '51. It was then in the middle of a large prairie, where there was good water, a branch leading into one of the affluents of the Sangamon passing through it. The old road from Springfield to Carlinville passed over the tract. Mr. Thomas had the lands surveyed out in '52, and formed his plans for the future improvements. The land is divided into several lots—some of them containing 160, and others 80 acres. He went to work in the fall of '52, and broke up the land an ample width for planting hedge round the whole tract and for keeping the fine from it—then in the same manner for his cross hedges—and in the spring of '53 commenced planting his hedges.

The land was away from the range of cattle. In fact his hedges received no injury but from passing hunters or deer.

He attended to his hedges for two or three years without much attempt to cultivate his farm—though he found time to build a house near the centre of the tract, and a large barn, and to plant seed for forming a grove of peach trees, a locust grove, and a large grove of 15 acres, filled with oak, walnut, hickory, sycamore, chestnut, ash, soft maples and many other kinds of our forest trees. This last mentioned grove is now in a most promising state of growth. Some of the trees are fifteen and twenty-five in height—some less, but all are flourishing. This was, indeed, the first grove of the kind that we ever saw, and it will be spoken of to the praise of Lewis H. Thomas in long, long years to come.

But we have lost sight of the beautiful hedges that surround and cross this farm. The outside hedges are all bull-proof, as are most of the inside hedges,—some of the latter being but about three years old.

The groves and hedges about Mr. Thomas' farm are a most beautiful creation—the work of a young man, scarcely now thirty years old. They show what can be done by well directed and intelligent industry. The hedges on his farm, in one string, would make a line of eleven miles, and he does not believe that they have or will cost him 25 cents a rod.

No man can examine the hedges of Mr. Thomas without being profoundly impressed with the belief that Osage Orange hedges are to be the fences of Illinois.

Mr. Thomas has now fences for the present, and probably for half the next century, and how much longer, who can tell?

☞We are told of a farmer in this county who put into a crib last fall 3,000 bushels of corn. The crib was made of rails and not covered. The corn was exposed to all the vicissitudes of weather, rains, sleets, snows, and the deluges of water in May and June—of course the corn was not the best—being faulty, as most corn of the last season was—but the crib gradually settled, and it was found on examination that the whole lot of corn was rotten, with the exception of about a hundred bushels. We suppose the owner of the corn reflects on Providence for the loss of his last year's crop.

SINGULAR PALLIATIVE FOR TOOTHACHE.—A little horseradish scraped, and laid on the wrist or the side affected, will, in many cases, give speedy relief. A better way is to place a little scraped horseradish in the mouth, or the tooth, or just around the gum. It relieves rheumatic pains in the gum and face also. The mouth may afterwards be rinsed with a little camphorated water, lukewarm.

RECEIPT FOR MAKING ICE-CREAM.—Two quarts good rich milk, four fresh eggs; three-quarters pound of white sugar; six teaspoons of Bermuda arrow root. Rub the arrow-root smooth in a cold milk; beat the eggs and sugar together; bring the milk to the boiling point; then stir in the arrow-root; remove it then from the fire and immediately add the eggs and sugar, stirring briskly to keep the eggs from cooking, then set aside to cool. If flavored with extracts, let it be done just before putting it in the freezer. If the vanilla bean is used, it must be boiled in the milk.

——Corn, which has been taken care of, is pushing forward most surprisingly. If the frosts hold off, most of it will mature.

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 3, 1858.

From the Chicago Press and Tribune.

GREAT DEBATE BETWEEN LINCOLN and DOUGLAS AT FREEPORT.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND PERSONS PRESENT.

The Dred Scott Champion "Trotted Out" and "Brought to his Milk."

IT PROVES TO BE STUMP-TAILED.

Great Caving-in on the Ottawa Forgery.

HE WAS "CONSCIENTIOUS" ABOUT IT.

Why Chase's Amendment was Voted Down.

LINCOLN TUMBLES HIM ALL OVER STEPHENSON COUNTY.

[CONCLUDED.]

I want to call your attention to the action of your Representatives in the Legislature, when they got together. In the first place, you must remember that they was the organization of a new party. It is so expressed in the resolutions. They were then going to dissolve all old political ties, and make a new party called the Republican party. The old Whig party was to have its throat cut and be destroyed. The Democratic party was to be annihilated and blotted out of existence, and in lieu of them this Republican party was to be organized with this abolition platform. We know who the chief leaders in breaking up and destroying those two great parties were. Lincoln on the one hand and Trumbull on the other hand, being disappointed politicians, and having retired and been driven by their constituents into obscurity because of their political sins, formed a scheme to abolitionize the two parties, and lead the old line Whigs and Democrats, bound hand and foot, into the abolition camp having Fred Douglass, and Chase, and Giddings ready to christen them whenever they brought them into the Abolition camp. Lincoln went to work to dissolve the old Whig party. Clay was dead, although the sod was not green on his grave. He undertook to bring into disrepute those great compromise measures of 1850 with which Clay had been identified. Up to 1854, the old Whig party and the old Democratic party had stood on a common platform so far as this slavery question was concerned. We differ—you Whigs and Democrats differed about a Bank, about a tariff, about distribution, about a specie circular, about the sub treasury, but we agreed upon this slavery question, and the true mode of preserving the peace and harmony of the Union with it. The Compromise measures of 1850, introduced by Clay, and defended by Webster, supported by Cass, approved by Fillmore, and sanctioned by all the national men of both parties, constituted the common plank upon which Whigs and Democrats stood. Then again in 1852, the Whig party in its National Convention at Baltimore—the last Whig convention ever held—endorsed and approved these Compromise measures of Clay. So did the Democratic Convention do the same thing. And thus all the Old Line Whigs and Old Line Democrats stood pledged to the great principle of self government, which guarantees to the people of each State and each Territory to decide the slavery question for themselves, as laid down in the compromise measures of 1850, and carried out in the Kansas Nebraska bill of 1854. After the death of Clay and Webster, Mr. Lincoln, on the part of the Whigs, undertook to abolitionize the Whig party, dissolve it, and transfer the members of that party into the abolition camp, and make them train under Giddings, Lovejoy, Farnsworth, and the other Abolition leaders. Trumbull undertook to dissolve the Democratic party by first abolitionizing it and then taking the old Democrats into the Abolition camp. Lincoln was aided in his efforts by many leading Whigs, old members of Congress, Washburne being of the most active. Trumbull on his part was aided by many renegades from the Democrats, such men as John Wentworth and others familiar to you.

MR. TURNER—I drew those resolutions.

MR. DOUGLAS—Turner assisted in drawing these resolutions, too, he says. [Loud cheers.] That's right. Give Turner the cheers for drawing the resolutions, if you approve of them. If Mr. Turner drew these abolition resolutions, he won't deny but what they are the creed of the Republican party.

MR. TURNER—They are our creed exactly.

JUDGE DOUGLAS—Turner says they are his—that is, the Black Republican—creed exactly, yet Mr. Lincoln denies that he stands upon them. Turner says that the creed of the Republican party here is no more slave States; yet Mr. Lincoln says he would not like to be put in a position where he would have to vote on it. Well, now, all I have to say to Mr. Lincoln is that I don't think there is much danger of his ever being put in a position where he will have to vote on the admission of a slave State. I propose, out of mere kindness, to relieve him of the necessity of that vote. [Laughter.]

But when this alliance between Lincoln and Trumbull was completed for the purpose of abolitionizing the Whig and Democratic parties in 1854, they spread over the State, Lincoln yet pretending to be an old line Whig—you know it would rope in the old line Whigs—Trumbull pretending to be as good a Democrat as he ever was, in order to coax the Democrats into the abolition camp. Trumbull and Lincoln played the part in 1854 that a decoy duck does down on the Potomac. You know they make them an artificial duck and send him out to decoy the wild ducks into the net, and Trumbull and Lincoln were the decoy ducks here to decoy the old line Whigs and Democrats into the abolition camp, and when they got them there they elected a Black Republican Legislature, and when they got together, the first thing they did was to elect for Speaker of the House the very man that now boasts that he wrote the abolition platform on which Lincoln won't stand. I want to know of Mr. Turner if, when he was elected Speaker, he was not a good embodiment of Republican principles?

MR. TURNER—I hope I was.

JUDGE DOUGLAS—He says he hopes he was. He wrote that platform and stands to-day upon it. [Applause and cries of "Hurrah for Turner."] I admire Turner's honesty in that. Every man of you knows that what he says about that being the principles of the party is true, and you know that every one of these men who shuffles and tries to deny, is only trying to cheat the people out of their votes until after election. There is the platform of the party.

I propose now to trace this matter a little further, and see how much evidence there is to fasten this Black Republican revolutionary platform upon them. When the Legislature got together there was a United States Senator to be elected in the place of Shields, and before they would proceed to the election of the Senator the Republicans or Abolitionists in the House insisted upon laying down certain principles by which to govern the party. It has been published to the world, and satisfactorily proved, that there was at the time the alliance was made between Trumbull and Lincoln to abolitionize the two parties, an agreement that Lincoln was to take Shields' place in the United States Senate, and Trumbull was to take mine so soon as I could be got rid of conveniently; [laughter] and when Mr. Lincoln was beaten for Shields' place, in a manner I will refer to in a few minutes, Lincoln felt very sore, and his friends grumbled, and some of them came out and charged that there was bad faith and treachery, that there was the most infamous treachery in the world—that the bargain was, that Lincoln was to have Shields' place and Trumbull mine, but that Trumbull, having the votes of a few Abolition Democrats under his control, would not let them vote for Lincoln, but kept them back until they finally drove the rest into voting for Trumbull. And Trumbull having thus cheated Lincoln out of the place, Lincoln's friends made a great deal of fuss, and in order to keep Lincoln quiet, they had to come forward and pledge themselves in advance in the State Convention that they would be for Lincoln and nobody else. Lincoln could be satisfied in no other way, and you Black Republicans—[Loud cries of "White Republicans, White Republicans"] I wish to remind you that there was not a Democrat here vulgar enough to interrupt Mr. Lincoln when he was talking. I know the shoe is pinching you when I am clinching Lincoln, and you are scared to death for the result. I have seen these men when they make appointments for joint discussion, and then the moment their man has been heard try to interrupt and prevent a fair hearing. I have seen your mobs before, and I defy your wrath. [These remarks were followed by considerable disturbance in the crowd ending in a cheer.] Don't cheer; I need my whole time. Their object is to occupy it, so I shall not go through with the evidence showing this double dealing on the Black Republican party.

When the Legislature got together and were going into the election of Senator of the United States, Lovejoy offered some resolutions which I hold in my hand. I will read the resolution and hand the preamble to the reporters, that they may publish the whole.

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to introduce, if not otherwise introduced, and to vote for a bill to restore such prohibition to the aforesaid Territories, and also to extend a similar prohibition to all territory which now belongs to the United States, or which may hereafter come under their jurisdiction.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to vote against the admission of any State into the Union the Constitution of which does not prohibit slavery, whether the Territory out of which such State may have been formed shall have been acquired by conquest, treaty, purchase, or from original territory of the United States.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested to introduce and vote for a bill to repeal an act entitled "an act respecting fugitives from justice and persons escaping from the service of their masters;" and, failing in that, for such a modification of it as shall secure the right of habeas corpus and trial by jury, before the regularly constituted authorities of the State, to all persons claimed as owing service as labor.

Now these resolutions were introduced by Lovejoy immediately preceding the election for Senator. These resolutions declare that the Wilmot Proviso must be put on all country North of 36 deg 30 min., and secondly, that it must be put on all territory South of 36 deg. 30 min., which we ever own or ever shall acquire—that no more slave States shall be admitted into the Union, under any circumstances whatever, no matter whether we acquire them by treaty, conquest, purchase, or any other manner. The next is for the unconditional repeal of the fugitive slave law. They were opposed to any fugitive slave law, and for its unconditional repeal, leaving no provision for carrying into effect that clause in the Constitution which guarantees the surrender of fugitives; but if they failed in the unconditional repeal, then they were to modify it in the manner therein pointed out. But they were opposed to any such law. If they could not get that, then get one as nearly useless as possible. Now I want to show you who voted for these resolutions. When the vote was taken on the first resolution, it was 41 in the affirmative, and 32 in the negative, and here are votes, which I will hand to the reporter to copy.

Those who voted in the affirmative were:

Messrs. Allen of Madison, Babcock, Beal, Brown of Knox, Courtney, Day, Diggins, Dunlap, Fess, Foster, Grove, Hackney, Henry, Henderson, Hills, Holbrook, Jones, Johns, Lawrence, Lee, Little, Logan, Lovejoy, Lyman, McClure, McClun, Parks of Logan, Parks of Will, Patton, Pinckney, Richmond of Cook, Riblet, Rice, Sargent, Strawn, Strunk, Sullivan, Swan, Waters, Wheeler, Mr. Speaker.

Those voting in the negative were:

Messrs. Allen of Williamson, Bennett, Baker, Bradford, Brown of Scott, Cline, Dearborn, Funkhouser, Gregg, Higbee, Hinch, Homer, Hopkins, Halliday, Kinney, Martin, Masters, McCrillis, McClain, McDaniel, Morrison, Moulton, Preston, Prusley, Rawlings, Richmond of Montgomery, Richmond of Schuyler, Sams, Seehorn, Tanner, Trapp, Walker.

You will find that it is a strict party vote between the Democrats and the Black Republicans so far as I know their names, and now the immediate point to which I want to call your attention is this: these resolutions were adopted on the 7th of February. On the 8th of February they went into the election of United States Senator, and on that day every man who voted for these resolutions with two exceptions voted for Mr. Lincoln for United States Senator.

A VOICE—Give us the names.

JUDGE DOUGLAS—Yes, I will give them to you, if you wan't them, but I believe your object is to occupy my time. On the adoption of the next resolution the vote was 33 in the affirmative to 40 in the negative. On the next resolution the vote was 25 in the affirmative to 47 in the negative. The point to which I call your particular attention is that every man who voted for these resolutions, with two exceptions, voted for Mr. Lincoln the next day for United States Senator. Now bear in mind that these members who thus voted for the amendment were elected pledged to vote for no man for office under the State or Federal Government who was not committed to this Black Republican platform as I read it at Ottawa. They were pledged to that. Here were your members, among whom was Turner, who stands by me, and says he wrote the resolutions, and voted for Mr. Lincoln when he was pledged not to vote for Mr. Lincoln unless he was committed to these resolutions. Now, I ask Mr. Turner, did you violate your pledge in voting for Mr. Lincoln, or did Mr. Lincoln commit himself before you gave the vote? Not only is the name of Turner here, but there are names from the adjoining counties. I could go through the whole list of the Black Republican party in the Legislature, with two exceptions; for instance, here is the name of Porter Sargeant, Willis A. Little, of Jo Daviess, the name of Thomas J. Turner, of Stevenson, Lyman, of Winnebago, Logan, Lawrence, of McHenry, Swan, from Lake, &c., and thus you see that every member from your Congressional District voted for Lincoln for the Senate, being pledged not to vote for him unless he was committed to this doctrine of no more Slave States, and the prohibition of slavery in the Territories, and the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law. Yet Mr. Lincoln tells you to-day that he is not pledged to any such thing. Either Mr. Lincoln was then committed to these propositions, or Mr. Turner violated his pledge to you by voting for him. Either Mr. Lincoln was pledged to Mr. Turner, or else all the Black Republicans from this District violated their pledge of honor to their constituents by voting for him. Now, I ask you, which horn of the dilemma will you take? Will you hold Lincoln to the platform of the party, or will you believe that every member you had in the House of Representatives with two exceptions violated their pledges of honor to their constituents? So you see there is no escape for Mr. Lincoln on this pledge. He was committed to this proposition or your members violated their pledge. Take either horn of the dilemma—there is no dodging of the question.

Now, a word or two in regard to Mr. Lincoln's answers on this question. He says he was not pledged to the repeal of the fugitive slave law. He was not pledged to it—doesn't quite like it—wouldn't introduce a law to repeal it—thinks there ought to be some law—did'nt tell what it is, and upon the whole don't know what to do. That is the substance of his answer about the fugitive slave law. I put the question whether he indorsed that principle of entire abrogation and repeal. He answers, no. Then he will not tell what he will introduce—if he will introduce anything. If any body else does do so, I ask him how he will vote, and his answer comes to no answer at all. Why can't he speak out and say what he is for and what he will do? In regard to there being any more slave States, he is not pledged on that. He wouldn't like to put himself in a position where he would have to vote either way. I pray you now, don't put him in a position to embarrass him so much. But if he goes to the Senate he may be put in that position, and I ask which way would he vote? Will he vote for or against the admission of a slave State?

A VOICE—How will you vote?

JUDGE DOUGLAS—I will vote for just such a State as the people forming the constitution may want. If they want slavery, they shall have it. If they want to prohibit slavery, they may do it. They may do one thing or the other, as they please, and I will receive them under the Constitution. Why don't your Republican candidates talk out as plain as that, when we put a question? I do not desire to deceive any man out of his vote. No man shall be deceived in my principles if I have the power to express myself in terms clear and distinct enough to convey my idea and meaning. Mr. Lincoln made a speech at Springfield, when nominated for the United States Senate, which covers all of these abolition principles. He then lays down a proposition so broad in its abolitionism as to cover the entire ground. He says that:

"In my opinion this agitation will not cease until a crisis shall have been reached and passed. 'A house divided against itself can not stand.' I believe this Government can not endure permanently half slave and half free. I do not expect the house to fall; but I expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing or all the other. Either the opponents of slavery will arrest the further spread of it, and place it where the public mind shall rest in the belief that it is in the course of ultimate extinction, or its advocates will push it forward till it shall become alike lawful in all the States, old as well as new, North as well as South."

Then you find that Mr. Lincoln lays down the doctrine that this nation can not endure, divided, as our fathers made it, into free and slave States. He says they must all become one way, or all the other—must all become free or all become slave; otherwise the Union can not continue to exist.

That being the case in his opinion, if we have any more Slave States, so that it would continue to be divided, it would dissolve the Union. I want to know whether Mr. Lincoln will vote for another Slave State, believing that the effect of it will dissolve the Union? He says the Union cannot exist divided—that the end will be to make them all Free or all Slave States. Hence he is for making them all free in order that the Union may exist. Yet he will vote for another Slave State, knowing that it would dissolve the Union if he did. I ask you if this is fair dealing? The true intent and inevitable conclusion from his Springfield speech is, that he is opposed to the admission of any more Slave States under any circumstances. If so, why does he not say so? If he believes that his country cannot exist divided into Free and Slave, if he believes they must all become free in order to save the Union, he is bound as an honest man to vote against any more Slave States. If he believes that, he is bound to do it. Show me that it is my duty under the Constitution, in order to save the Union, to do a particular act and I will do it, if the Constitution does not prohibit me. I am not for the dissolution of the Union under any circumstances. I will pursue no course of conduct to give just cause for the dissolution of the Union. The hope of the friends of freedom throughout the world rests upon the perpetuity of this Union. The friends of liberty in the old world—the downtrodden people under European despotism, all look with hope and anxiety to the American Union as the only resting place and permanent home of freedom and self-government; and not believing, as Mr. Lincoln says, that this Union cannot endure with Slave States in it, he will not tell you definitely whether he would vote for more Slave States and thus dissolve the Union, but he says he would not like to be put to the test. Well, I don't think he will be put to the test. I don't think the people of Illinois desire a man to represent them who would not like to be put to the test in the performance of a high constitutional duty. I will retire in shame from the Senate of the United States when I am not willing to be put to the test in the performance of my duty. [Applause.] I have been put to several tests. I have stood by my principles in fair weather and foul—in the sunshine and in the rain. I have defended the great principles of self-government here among you, when Northern sentiment ran in a torrent against it. I have defended the same great principle of self-government, when Southern sentiment came down with its avalanche upon me. I was not afraid of the test, they put to me. I knew I was right—that the principles were sound; I knew the people would say in the end I had done right that the God of Heaven would smile upon me if I was faithful in the performance of my duty. But Mr. Lincoln attempts to bolster up his charge of corruption against the Supreme Court of the United States and two Presidents of the United States and myself by pleading an effort, and saying I did the same thing on the Washington Union. Suppose I did make the charge of corruption against the Washington Union when it was true, does that justify his making one against me and others where it is false? That is the question I want to put to him. He says that at the time the Nebraska bill was introduced, before its passage, there was a conspiracy between the Judges of the Supreme Court and President Pierce and Mr Buchanan and myself, pending that decision to break down the barriers and establish slavery all over the Union. Gentlemen, he knew that that charge is historically false as against Mr Buchanan. He knows that Mr Buchanan was at that time in England, representing his country with distinguished ability in the court of St. James, and had been there for a long time, and I did not come home for a year afterwards. He knows that fact, which proves to be false in reference to Mr Buchanan. Again I have called his attention to the fact that at the time the Dred Scott case was not pending before the Supreme Court at all. It had never been brought before the Judges. They knew nothing of it and had never heard of it in all probability. Thus the history of the country proves the charge as to them. As to Mr. Pierce, his character as a man of integrity and honor is enough to protect him from the charge. [Laughter.] As to myself, I pronounce the charge an infamous lie, whoever and by whomsoever made. I am willing that Mr. Lincoln should take up every act I have ever done—every report I have ever made, every speech I have ever delivered, and criticise them. But when he charges a corrupt conspiracy for the purpose of subverting the Constitution, I brand it as it deserves, and as I believe the history of the country proves it to be, false. But now he takes up the Washington Union, because I made a speech against that paper. My speech against it was made simply because it advocated a doctrine revolutionary, by saying that the free States had not a right to prohibit slavery in their limits. Because I made that charge Mr. Lincoln says it was a charge against Mr. Buchanan. Suppose it was. Is Mr. Lincoln his peculiar defender? Is he in alliance with the Federal Administration that he is bound to defend it against any attack I have made? I understand that the Washington Union, under the control of that most corrupt of all corrupt men, Cornelius Wendell, is advocating Lincoln's claims to the United States Senatorship. By the last Republican House of Representatives he was made the printer for the House, and he took the money he made by printing, and with it bought the Washington Union, and even in the name of the Democratic party, he is advocating Mr. Lincoln's claims for the Senatorship, while Mr. Lincoln considers any attack on Wendell and his corrupt gang as an attack upon him personally. It only proves what I have charged, that there is an alliance between the Black Republicans and the Presidential aspirants out of the State to break me down at home. Mr. Lincoln is bound to come to the rescue. In that speech discussing the Washington Union, I made the charge distinctly against the Union, and the Union alone. I did not go beyond that. If I ever have occasion to attack the President of the United States, I will do it in a way that will not be misunderstood. When I differed with the President, I spoke out that you all heard me. When that one question passed away and resulted in the triumph of my principles, by allowing the people to do as they pleased, there was an end to that controversy. Whenever the great principles of self-government—the right of the people to make their own Constitution, and come into the Union with slavery or without it, as they see proper, shall again arise, you will find me standing firm in defence of that principle, and fighting whoever fights that principle. If Mr. Buchanan then stands, as I doubt not he will, by the recommendation in his message—by the principle that hereafter all Constitutions are to be submitted to the people before admission into the Union, you will find me standing by him firmly, shoulder to shoulder, in carrying out that principle. I know Mr. Lincoln's object. He wants to avoid a distinct avowal of opinion in order to elect himself to the Senate. [Applause.]

and we agreed upon a common platform. You, who held more extreme notions, either yielded those notions, or if not wholly yielding them, agreed to yield them practically, for the sake of embodying the opposition to the measures which the opposite party were pushing forward at that time. We met you then, and if there was anything yielded, it was for practical purposes. We agreed then upon a platform for the party throughout the entire State of Illinois, and now we are bound as a party to that platform. And I say here to you, if any one expects of me—in the case of my election—that I will do anything not signified by our Republican platform and my answers here to-day, I tell you very frankly that person will be deceived. I do not ask for the vote of any one who supposes that I have secret purposes or pledges that I dare not speak out. Cannot the Judge be satisfied? If he fears, in the unfortunate case of my election, [laughter] that my going to Washington will enable me to advocate sentiments contrary to those which I expressed when you voted for and elected me, I assure him that his fears are wholly needless and groundless. Is the Judge really afraid of any such thing? [Laughter.] I'll tell you what he is afraid of. He is afraid we'll all pull together. [Applause, and cries of "we will, we will."] This is what alarms him more than anything else. (Laughter.) For my part, I do hope that all of us, entertaining a common sentiment in opposition to what appears to us a design to nationalize and perpetuate slavery, will waive minor differences on questions which either belong to the dead past or the distant future, and all pull together in this struggle. What are your sentiments? ("We will, we will," and loud cheers.) If it be true, that on the ground which I occupy—ground which I occupy as frankly and boldly as Judge Douglas does his—my views, though partly coinciding with yours, are not as perfectly in accordance with your feelings as his are, I do say to you in all candor, Go for him and not for me. I hope to deal in all things fairly with Judge Douglas and with the people of the State, in this contest. And if I should never be elected to any office, I trust I may go down with no stain of falsehood upon my reputation—notwithstanding the hard opinions Judge Douglas chooses to entertain of me. (Laughter.)

The Judge has again addressed himself to the abolition tendencies of a speech of mine, made at Springfield in June last. I have so often tried to answer what he is always saying on that melancholy theme, that I almost turn with disgust from the discussion—from the repetition of an answer to it. I trust that nearly all of this intelligent audience have read that speech. ["We have, we have."] If you have, I may venture to leave it to you to inspect it closely, and see whether it contains any of those "bugaboos" which frighten Judge Douglas. [Laughter.]

The Judge complains that I did not fully answer his questions. If I have the sense to comprehend and answer those questions, I have done so fairly. If it can be pointed out to me how I can more fully and fairly answer him, I aver I have not the sense to see how it is to be done. He says I do not declare I would in any event vote for the admission of a slave State into the Union. If I have been fairly reported, he will see that I did give an explicit answer to his interrogatories. I did not merely say that I would dislike to be put to the test; but I said clearly, if I were put to the test, and a Territory from which slavery had been excluded should present herself with a State constitution sanctioning slavery—a most extraordinary thing and wholly unlikely to happen—I did not see how I could avoid voting for her admission. But he refuses to understand that I said so, and he wants this audience to understand that I did not say so. Yet it will be so reported in the printed speech that he can not help seeing it.

He says if I should vote for the admission of a slave State I would be voting for a dissolution of the Union, because I hold that the Union cannot permanently exist half slave and half free. I repeat that I do not believe this Government can endure permanently half slave and half free, yet I do not admit, nor does it at all follow, that the admission of a single slave State will permanently fix the character and establish this as a universal slave nation. The Judge is very happy indeed at working up these quibbles. [Laughter and cheers.] Before leaving the subject of answering questions, I aver as my confident belief, when you come to see our speeches in print, that you will find every question which he has asked me more fairly and boldly and fully answered than he has answered those which I put to him. Is not that so? [Cries of yes, yes.] The two speeches may be placed side by side; and I will venture to leave it to impartial judges whether his questions have not been more directly and circumstantially answered than mine.

Judge Douglas says he made a charge upon the editor of the Washington Union, alone, of entertaining a purpose to rob the States of their power to exclude slavery from their limits. I undertake to say, and I make the direct issue, that he did not make his charge against the editor of the Union alone. (Applause.) I will undertake to prove by the record here, that he made that charge against more and higher dignitaries than the editor of the Washington Union. I am quite aware that he was shirking and dodging around the form in which he put it, but I can make it manifest that he leveled his "fatal blow" against more persons than this Washington editor. Will he dodge it now by alleging that I am trying to defend Mr. Buchanan against the charge? Not at all. Am I not making the same charge myself? [Laughter and applause.] I am trying to show that you, Judge Douglas, are a witness on my side. [Renewed laughter.] I am not defending Buchanan, and I will tell Judge Douglas that in my opinion, when he made that charge, he had an eye farther North than he was to-day. He was then fighting against people who called him a Black Republican and an Abolitionist. It is mixed all through his speech, and it is tolerably manifest that his eye was a great deal farther North than it is to-day. [Cheers and laughter.] The Judge says that though he made this charge Toombs got up and declared there was not a man in the United States, except the editor of the Union, who was in favor of the doctrines put forth in that article. And thereupon, I understand that the Judge withdrew the charge. Although he had taken extracts from the newspaper, and then from the Lecompton Constitution, to show the existence of a conspiracy to bring about a "fatal blow," by which the States were to be deprived of the right of excluding slavery, it all went to pot as soon as Toombs got up and told him it was not true. [Laughter.] It reminds me of the story that John Phoenix, the California railroad surveyor, tells. He says they started out from the Plaza to the Mission of Dolores. They had two ways of determining distances. One was by a chain and pins taken over the ground. The other was by a "go-it-ometer"—an invention of his own—a three-legged instrument, with which he computed a series of triangles between the points. At night he turned to the chain-man to ascertain what distance they had come, and found that by some mistake he had merely dragged the chain over the ground without keeping any record. By the "go-it-ometer" he found he had made ten miles. Being skeptical about this, he asked a drayman who was passing how far it was to the Plaza. The drayman replied it was just half a mile, and the surveyor put it down in his book—just as Judge Douglas says, after he had made his calculations and computations, he took Toombs' statement. [Great laughter.] I have no doubt that after Judge Douglas had made his charge, he was as easily satisfied about its truth as the surveyor was of the drayman's statement of the distance to the plaza. [Renewed laughter.] Yet it is a fact that the man who put forth all that matter which Douglas deemed a "fatal blow" at State sovereignty, was elected by the Democrats as public printer.

Now, gentlemen, you may take Judge Douglas's speech of March 22d, 1858, beginning about the middle of page 21, and reading to the bottom of page 24, and you will find the evidence on which I say that he did not make his charge against the editor of the Union alone. I cannot stop to read it, but I will give it to the reporters. Judge Douglas said:

"Mr. President, you here find several distinct propositions advanced boldly by the Washington Union editorially and apparently authoritatively, and every man who questions any of them is denounced as an Abolitionist, a Free Soiler, a fanatic. The propositions are, first, that the primary object of all governments at its original institution is the protection of persons and property; second, that the Constitution of the United States declares that the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States; and that, therefore, thirdly, all State laws, whether organic or otherwise, which prohibit the citizens of one State from settling in another with their slave property, and especially declaring it forfeited, are direct violations of the original intention of the government and Constitution of the United States; and fourthly, that the emancipation of the slaves of the Northern States was a gross outrage on the rights of property, inasmuch as it was involuntarily done on the part of the owner.

Remember that this article was published in the Union on the 17th of November, and on the 18th appeared the first article giving the adhesion of the Union to the Lecompton Constitution. It was in these words:

"KANSAS AND HER CONSTITUTION.—The vexed question is settled. The problem is solved. The dread point of danger is passed. All serious trouble to Kansas affairs is over and gone"—

And a column of nearly the same sort. Then, when you come to look into the Lecompton Constitution, you find the same doctrine incorporated in it which was put forth editorially in the Union. What is it?

"Art. 7, Sec. 1. The right of property is before and higher than any constitutional sanction; and the right of the owner of a slave to such slave and its increase is the same and as inviolable as the right of the owner of any property whatever."

Then in the schedule is a provision that the Constitution may be amended after 1864 by a two-thirds vote.

"But no alteration shall be made to affect the right of property in the ownership of slaves."

It will be seen by these clauses in the Lecompton Constitution that they are identical in spirit with this authoritative article in the Washington Union of the day previous to its indorsement of this Constitution.

When I saw that article in the Union of the 17th of November, followed by the glorification of the Lecompton Constitution on the 18th of November, and this clause in the Constitution asserting the doctrine that a State has no right to prohibit slavery within its limits, I saw that there was a fatal blow being struck at the sovereignty of the States of the Union.

Here he says, "Mr. President, you here find several distinct propositions advanced boldly, and apparently authoritatively." By whose authority, Judge Douglas? [Great cheers and laughter.] Again, he says in another place, "It will be seen by these clauses in the Lecompton Constitution, that they are identical in spirit with this authoritative article." By whose authority? [Renewed cheers.] Who do you mean to say authorized the publication of these articles? He knows that the Washington Union is considered the organ of the Administration. I demand of Judge Douglas by whose authority he meant to say those articles were published, if not by the authority of the President of the United States and his Cabinet? I defy him to show whom he referred to, if not to these high functionaries in the Federal Government. More than this, he says the articles in that paper and the provisions of the Lecompton Constitution are "identical," and being identical, he argues that the authors are co-operating and conspiring together. He does not use the word "conspiring," but what other construction can you put upon it? He winds up with this:

"When I saw that article in the Union of the 17th of November, followed by the glorification of the Lecompton Constitution on the 18th of November, and this clause in the Constitution asserting the doctrine that a State has no right to prohibit slavery within its limits I saw there was a fatal blow being struck at the sovereignty of the States of this Union."

I ask him if all this fuss was made over the editor of this newspaper. [Laughter.] It would be a terribly "fatal blow" indeed which a single man could strike, when no President, no Cabinet officer, no member of Congress, was giving strength and efficiency to the movement. Out of respect to Judge Douglas' good sense I must believe he didn't manufacture his idea of the "fatal" character of that blow out of such a miserable scapegrace as he represents that editor to be. But the Judge's eye is farther South now. [Laughter and cheers.] Then, it was very peculiarly and decidedly North. His hope rested on the idea of visiting the great "Black Republican" party, and making it the tail of his new kite. [Great laughter.] He knows he was then expecting from day to day to turn Republican and place himself at the head of our organization. He has found that these despised "Black Republicans" estimate him by a standard which he has taught them none too well. Hence he is crawling back into his old camp, and you will find him eventually installed in full fellowship among those whom he was then battling, and with whom he now pretends to be at such fearful variance. [Loud applause and cries of "go on, go on."] I cannot, gentlemen, my time has expired.

Mr. Lincoln's Rejoinder.

As Mr. Lincoln arose he was greeted with vociferous cheers. He said:

My friends, it will readily occur to you that I cannot in half an hour notice all the things that so able a man as Judge Douglas can say in an hour and a half, and I hope, therefore, if there be anything that he has said, upon which, you would like to hear something from me, but which I omit to comment upon, you will bear in mind that it would be expecting an impossibility for me to go over his whole ground. I can but take up some of the points that he has dwelt upon, and employ my half hour specially on them.

The first thing I have to say to you is a word in regard to Judge Douglas' declaration about the "vulgarity and blackguardism in the audience;" that no such thing, as he says, was shown by any Democrat while I was speaking. Now, I only wish, by way of reply on this subject, to say that while I was speaking I used no "vulgarity or blackguardism" towards any Democrat. [Great laughter and applause.]

Now, my friends, I come to all this long portion of the Judge's speech—perhaps half of it—which he has devoted to the various resolutions and platforms that have been adopted in the different counties in the different Congressional districts, and in the Illinois Legislature—which he supposes are at variance with the positions I have assumed before you to-day. It is true that many of these resolutions are at variance with the positions I have here assumed. All I have to ask is that we talk reasonably and rationally about it. I happen to know, the Judge's opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, that I have never tried to conceal my opinions, nor tried to deceive any one in reference to them. He may go and examine all the members who voted for me for United States Senator in 1855, after the election of 1854. They were pledged to certain things here at home, and were determined to have pledges from me, and if he will find any of these persons who will tell him anything inconsistent with what I say now, I will resign, or rather retire from the race, and give him no more trouble. [Applause.] The plain truth is this. At the introduction of the Nebraska policy, we believed there was a new era being introduced in the history of the Republic, which tended to the spread and perpetuation of slavery. But in our opposition to that measure we did not agree with one another in everything. The people in the north end of the State were for stronger measures of opposition than we of the central and southern portions of the State, but we were all opposed to the Nebraska doctrine. We had that one feeling and that one sentiment in common. You at the north end met in your Conventions and passed your resolutions. We in the middle of the State and further south did not hold such conventions and pass the same resolutions, although we had in general a common view and a common sentiment. So that these meetings which the Judge has alluded to, and the resolutions he has read from were local and did not spread over the whole State. We at last met together in 1856 from all parts of the State,

The old villain has been arrested.

The Telegraph Celebration at New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The day continued fine throughout, and the celebration came off according to programme and with less confusion than might have been reasonably anticipated from the extent of the preparation and the vast concourse of people assembled to witness the show. The procession was very long, and surpassed in effectiveness anything of the kind ever gotten up here. The military, especially, made a very brilliant display, and the several regiments which formed the line were greeted with cheers from all sides along the whole line of march. Other divisions of the procession, especially that embracing the several trades, were also greeted with demonstrations of applause. Most conspicuous among these was the van bearing the telegraph instrument of Prof. Hughes, and that with the Bartholf sewing machine, on which was a company of female operators at work. Printers, lithographers, masons, carpenters, cabinet makers, and other trades, were also appropriately represented.

Cyrus W. Field rode in an open barouche, and was greeted throughout with waving handkerchiefs and vociferous cheers.

The procession did not all arrive at the Palace till nearly 6 o'clock. That building was crowded to excess. The services were of the most imposing nature. The music superb and the speeches appropriate and eloquent.

The presentation speech to Mr. Field was made by Mayor Tieman. It was neat and complimentary, and was responded to by Mr. Field.

The oration, by David Dudly Field, was a masterly performance, and elicited the repeated applause of the vast audience.

During the ceremonies, two odes, written for the occasion by Mrs. Ann J. Stephens, were sung by an immense choir, composed of several of our largest musical associations.

After the services at the Palace, the torch light procession of the New York fire department took place. It was a magnificent display and formed a fitting close of the day.

Broadway was a blaze of fire from the Battery to Union Park. All the public buildings, and a large portion of the private ones being brilliantly illuminated. Many of them displaying magnificent transparencies. Illuminated lanterns and fire works were displayed in abundance in all the public thoroughfares.

The municipal display of fire works in the Park, were imposing, and witnessed by an immense concourse of spectators.

At one o'clock the city was comparatively quiet. The whole show having passed off with remarkable freedom from disturbances or accidents.

Telegraph Celebration at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Sept. 2.—The grand Atlantic telegraph cable banquet came off at St. James' Hall last night.

Hon. Millard Fillmore presided.

Speeches were made by Mr. Fillmore, Hon. Jas. Wadsworth; Hon. J. Hatch and other prominent citizens. A number of distinguished Canadians were present, and participated in the festivities, which were of the most pleasant character.

The Hall was connected with the wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company. The message from London to Cyrus W. Field was received, via Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Cleveland, about midnight, and created the most extravagant manifestations of joy.

Congratulatory messages were received from the Mayors of several Western cities.

Dreadful Railroad Accident.

PITTSBURG, PA., Sept. 2.—A terrible disaster occurred last night about 8 o'clock on the Allegany Valley Railroad, near Hutton's station twelve miles above Pittsburg. The Kittanang train coming down stopped at Torentum, and hitched on to a car containing a large party returning from camp meeting. When the train reached the point above mentioned the Torentum car was thrown from the track by the breaking of a cross bar connecting the brakes, and the car rolled down a steep embankment, turning over twice. At first the revolution the roof was torn off, and the passengers scattered over the ground, mangling the bodies of some terribly. Mary Ann, daughter of J. T. Kincaid, of this city, was instantly killed. A large number more or less injured. John Rockley's skull was broken, and J. McCreary had his arms broken.

The killed and wounded reside mostly in Pittsburg and vicinity. They were brought here last night, and a Coroner's jury held an inquest over the body of Miss Kincaid, and exculpated the company's employees from blame.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The quarantine station at Staten Island was attacked last night by a mob of 1000 men and several of the buildings fired. The large hospital building, the buildings used for yellow fever patients and Dr. Thompson's private residence were entirely destroyed. Several other small buildings on the premises were also burned. Dr. Thompson rallied a force of 60 men to protect his dwelling but they were all driven out. One man of the Doctors party was shot dead. Before firing the fever hospital the mob removed the patients on their matrasses to a distance, laying them on the ground. No intelligence of this outrage reached the city till 3 o'clock this A. M., when a body of harbor policemen were dispatched to the scene, but they arrived too late to be of service. The inmates of the quarantine together with the physicians and all fled, fearing the mob intended to take their lives.

Fire at Fulton.

FULTON, ILL., Sept. 2.—A fire broke out about one o'clock this morning, destroying two blocks of buildings, including the post office, dry goods grocery stores, printing office and several small dwellings. Loss $60,000. Small insurance.—Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 1.—The Mercury of to-day contains the opinion of the Attorney General of South Carolina on the subject of the negroes brought here in the brig Cato. It is to the effect that the Africans be returned by the City Marshal and that they are not subject to the laws of South Carolina.

Another Railroad Accident.

ALBANY, Sept. 2.—As the train of the Northern road was coming in crowded with passengers last night, a freight train on the Central road was backing down to the crossing and ran into the last car of the passenger train and upsetting it. The following passengers were injured: Edgar Lebdall, probably fatally; Mrs. A. S. Ayres, shoulder dislocated; Moses Carver, arm broken and injured internally; Capt. Washburn, badly cut over the head and face; Mrs. C. Powell, badly cut over the face and head. All the sufferers are from West Troy.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Lieut. Pegram, who distinguished himself in the fight with pirates in the East Indies during the Perry expedition, has been appointed to the command of the steamer Water Witch, fitting out for Paraguay.

During August 1,007 bounty land warrants were issued, to satisfy which 104,000 acres are necessary.

The Secretary of the Navy will soon make a visit of inspection to the Norfolk navy yard.

WE ESTEEM IT A PLEASURE, RESTing upon our absolute knowledge of its merits, to recommend Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative as the best article of the kind with which we are acquainted, and one which has done, under our own observation, all that it claims—and it claims everything implied in its name.

This article, in short, will restore gray hair to its original color, and add to its growth and beauty wherever any blight or disease has checked that growth or marred that beauty. This has been proved in our family within a few weeks, and in numerous other cases related to us, without the knowledge of the proprietor. We have only to add that this most valuable article is for sale by the proprietor at Nos. 312 Broadway and 114 Market street, St. Louis.

THE LADIES! THE LADIES! THE LADIES!—It is a well established fact, that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health, or, to use their own expression "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class of invalids the Hoofland's German Bitters are especially recommended. Their peculiar tonic and invigorating properties render them invaluable in such cases.

Read the Testimony.

F. M. Chalfant says:

MORGANTOWN, VA., Sept. 25, 1855.—Ship me immediately 12 dozen German Bitters, and I assure you no medicine that I sell gives such general satisfaction, the demand for it being beyond all precedent. It affords me pleasure to sell a medicine so satisfactory to all. Our physicians no longer scout at it, but are compelled to acknowledge its intrinsic value, and the greater part of them have had magnanimity of soul sufficient to lay aside their prejudices and prescribe it in their practice.

Ask for Hoofland's German Bitters, and take nothing else. They are prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, 418 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and are sold by druggists and storekeepers in every town and village in the United States, Canadas, West Indies and South America, at 75 cents per bottle.

DOES ANY OF OUR HIGH LIVERS ever eat too much dinner? If any have cooks who tempt their appetite a little too far, I will tell a secret that will lead them to the enjoyment of their dinners without a visit from that gouty old gentleman—Dyspepsia. Take a dose of Dr Sanford's Invigorator after eating, and you will never be troubled with indigestion; but on the contrary, before the next meal time approaches the appetite will be sharpened to appreciate any kind of food. If the food rises or sours, the Invigorator will fix the matter right at once, for there is something in it that, to use the expression of a friend, will let a man eat gravel stones, and take the Invigorator and they will digest. We have tried it in double doses, on one or two occasions, for sick headache, and it acts like a charm.

What we want to say to our readers, young or old, is, if any things ails you, go without delay and get a bottle of Dr Sanford's Invigorator, and if it don't cure come and tell us for we want to see one person that it will not benefit.—Jersey Shore Republican.

Douglas and his sattelites stand convicted of the crime of willful forgery, in quoting a set of resolutions adopted by a "People's" Convention at Aurora, and trying to pass them off as the Republican platform of 1854.

Read the retraction, taken from the Chicago Times of August 24th:

"In the speech made by Judge Douglas, at Ottawa, on Saturday, he quoted the resolutions which contained the Republican platform of 1858. Misled by the paper in which he found the resolutions published, he located their adoption at a Convention held at Springfield. The particular resolutions WERE NOT THE ONES ADOPTED AT THE SPRINGFIELD CONVENTION."

THE RECORD! THE RECORD!!

Our readers will find in one of the sections of the Toombs bill the following provision:

"That the following proposition be and the same are hereby offered to the convention of the people of Kansas, when formed for their free acceptance of rejection, which if accepted by the convention, and ratified by the people at the election for the adoption of the Constitution, shall be obligatory on the United States and upon the said State of Kansas."

In the bill as reported by Douglas, the words in italic were left out. * * Senator Douglas DID strike out the clause.—Chicago Times, Aug. 13th. [dawtf

Douglas' New Dodge—His Quibbles about the Dred Scott Decision.

The Register, which seems to be specially employed by Judge Douglas to father his forgeries and do his dirty work generally, comes to his aid in reference to his new Dred Scott tack, and ducks and dives with him through all his tortuosities and inconsistencies, with the meekest submission. Douglas having said it, the Register tries to prove that there is no inconsistency between Douglas' former exposition of the Dred Scott decision and the new reading which he has promulgated at Freeport. The Register says:

"The Supreme Court has decided that Congress does not possess the power to prohibit slavery in the territories, and that not possessing the power Congress of course could not grant the power to territorial legislatures, but the supreme court has not yet decided that the people of a territory do not possess the power independent of the action of Congress."

This is all twaddle and nonsense. The Dred Scott decision, which Mr. Douglas indorses, expressly decides that the people of a territory do not possess the power to exclude slavery. It says—

"No tribunal, acting under the authority of the United States whether it be LEGISLATIVE, executive or judicial, has a right to draw such a distinction, or deny to it the benefit of the provisions and guarantees which have been provided for the protection of private property against the encroachments of the Government."—Dred Scott Decision delivered by Chief Justice Taney, p. 451.

In the head notes of the Report of the Dred Scott Decision we find the following:

"Every citizen has a right to take with him into the Territory any article of property which the Constitution of the United States recognizes as property.

"The Constitution of the United States recognizes slaves as property, and pledges the Federal Government to protect it."

Mr. Buchanan also takes the same view of the repeal of the Missouri restriction. He says in his special Kansas message:

"It has been solemnly adjudged by the highest judicial tribunal known to our laws, that slavery exists in Kansas by virtue of the Constitution of the United States. Kansas is therefore at this moment, as much a slave State as Georgia or South Carolina. Without this, the equality of the sovereign States composing the Union would be violated, and the use and enjoyment of a Territory acquired by the common treasure of all the States, would be closed against the people and the property of nearly half the members of the confederacy. Slavery can, therefore, never be prohibited in Kansas, excepting by means of a constitutional provision."

The following from the President's Silliman letter, also shows his understanding of that decision:

"Slavery existed at that period, and still exists, in Kansas, UNDER THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES. This point has at last been finally settled by the highest tribunal known to our laws. How it could ever be seriously doubted is a mystery."

Here we have it, as Democratic doctrine, that slavery not only exists in the Territories, but that the "Legislative" authority of the Territory "CAN NOT DENY IT THE BENEFIT OF THE PROVISIONS AND GUARANTIES WHICH HAVE BEEN PROVIDED FOR THE PROTECTION OF PRIVATE PROPERTY." This has always heretofore been the position of both Douglas and the Register. The files of the Register are filled with most hearty approvals of the President's Silliman letter. In its issue of September 17th, 1857, it remarked:

"The Black Republican press regard Mr. Buchanan's letter as more dangerous to their prospects than anything which has transpired since their overwhelming defeat in November, 1856; hence their insane ravings at it. The overwhelming and crushing effect of that letter is indirectly acknowledged by the way the Black Republicans speak of it. A careful perusal of all their insane raving will show the reader that THEY HAVE NOT USED A SINGLE ARGUMENT TO SHOW THAT THE PRESIDENT IS IN ERROR."

And in the same article it quotes approvingly from a contemporary who says—

"The public press of the country has responded to Mr. Buchanan's letter to Professor Silliman and his friends in a manner which must be in the highest degree flattering to the supporters of the Administration. Even among those who profess to be lukewarm in sympathy with the Democracy, the calm and practical suggestions, the cogent logic, and the manly candor of the President's letter, have extorted universal approbation. Throughout the country it has been a remarkable success—a palpable hit."

In Douglas' Springfield Grand Jury Speech we find him taking the same view of the Dred Scott decision which Mr. Buchanan took and which received such enthusiastic approval from the Register. In that speech Mr. Douglas said:

"The court did not attempt to avoid responsibility by disposing of the case upon technical points, without touching the merits; nor did it go out of the way to decide questions not properly before them, and directly presented by the record. Like honest and conscientious judges as they are, they met and decided each point as it arose, and faithfully performed their whole duty, and nothing but their duty, to the country by determining all the questions in the case, and nothing but what was essential to the decision of the case upon its merits."

In his late Chicago speech, when he began the campaign, he took equally broad ground, and, among other things, said:—

I will sustain the judicial tribunals and constituted authorities in all matters within the pale of their jurisdiction, as defined by the Constitution. * * * * * *

On the other point, Mr. Lincoln goes for a warfare upon the Supreme Court of the United States because of their judicial decision in the Dred Scott case: I yield obedience to the decisions of that Court—to the final determination of that highest judicial tribunal known to our constitution.

Here we have Mr. Douglas indorsing, defending and solemnly promising to abide by the decision of the Supreme Court, while at Freeport and later in his organ, in this city, he practically repudiates that decision.

As to the statement made by the Register that Mr. Douglas presented the views of his Freeport speech upon this subject in every other speech he has made in the State, it is simply a falsehood. He never before took the ground upon the subject which he took at Freeport.—And he would not have taken the position he did there, had he not seen that a reunion with the Democratic party was hopeless, and that his only chance now was to hood wink Republicans into his support.

Every fresh speech that Judge Douglas makes, as remarked by a contemporary, only plunges him more hopelessly into a quagmire, which is full of pools of dirty water, into which he flounders, then drags himself out, shakes the water and dirt off his clothing, and prepares himself for a fresh dip.

He has got to that point now, at which he has in turn repudiated all his former principles and has got into the process of repudiating his many repudiations. His plan is to seek to avoid the true issues of the campaign, get up some new bug-bear at every point at which he speaks, place his opponent upon the defensive, and thus behind a cloud of dust and smoke retire to the next speaking place.

But even this game must soon be played out. This sort of guerilla warfare may take with a few shallow-pated individuals, or be pronounced glorious by his immediate followers, but the reflecting people of the State must eventually repudiate the man who has been compelled to take to it as the last resort of a used-up politician.

The Register Uneasy About the Germans.

The Register, having securely bagged the Irish Catholic vote for Mr. Douglas, is anxious to come the same game over our German American citizens. It expresses much anxiety lest the Republicans "shall, before the election is over, commence a warfare on the Germans" as they have on the Irish. The Register pays the Germans a very equivocal compliment by its classification. But that sheet need not worry itself.

The German Americans are something better than the mere "voting cattle" which the Register takes them to be. They are intelligent, thinking, order loving men, who read and study politics for themselves, and are not to be duped by the Register. They came to this country because they hate despotism and oppression, and love liberty and free labor. They vote, not as Douglas demagogues or an ecclesiastical hierarchy may tell them, but according to the honest dictates of their own judgment. Throughout the country we are glad to notice that they are repudiating the bogus, pro-slavery, Dred Scott Democracy, and coming out for the white man's Republican party.

THE REGISTER AND ITS IRISH ALLIANCE.—The Register of yesterday shows itself true and faithful to the alliance which exists between Douglas and the Irish. It defends the drunken rowdies who tried to break up the political meeting the other night, with its whole heart, and thinks it was a great outrage that they were so summarily kicked down stairs. Having paid them to howl down the meeting, the Douglas leaders are sore over the fruitless expenditure of their money and are loud in their curses, because the Republicans are determined to see fair play between the two belligerent wings of the Democracy.

Let the Register rave at the indignity inflicted upon the rank and file of Mr. Douglas' party. It is only a foretaste of what they may expect, if they attempt the crush out policy, in old Sangamon. They have lorded it with a high hand long enough, and it will not be submitted to any longer. They shall have all the legal rights to which they are entitled but when they attempt to interfere with free discussion or stuff the ballot boxes, they will be met with force, if necessary.

The Springfield Sugar Mill.

Mr. J. O. Depew, proprietor of the proposed Sugar Mill, writes that he will be ready by the 20th September to go to work, night and day, in crushing canes and boiling the juice. He wants some ripe canes to be on hand a few days before that time. He says that cane is in order for cutting one month after it blossoms.

Gov. Matteson, in order to further this great enterprise, has offered to bring canes upon the Alton, Chicago and St. Louis Road, free of cost; believing that if successful, a valuable staple will be added to the crops of Illinois.

Senator Trumbull at Jacksonville.

THE DOUGLASITES WAY DOWN IN THE MOUTH.

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 31, 1858.

Perhaps you have not yet been informed in regard to the great success of Senator Trumbull's able speech here on last Friday. Men of all parties admit its great power, and our opponents are dismayed at the effect it has already produced. The Douglas men confess a loss of fifty votes by this one effort of our gifted Senator, but in truth their loss is nearer two hundred. The fairness, candor, manly dignity, high-tone and truthfulness of Mr. Trumbull; so utterly different from Mr. Douglas' low and vulgar harangues, make a powerful impression upon all honorable men. Conviction, beyond the possibility of a doubt, was forced upon the minds of thousands present, that Douglas is a dishonest, tricky and treacherous demagogue, and that in the Toombs bill he basely betrayed popular sovereignty in the grossest manner.—The Douglas men were thunderstruck at the completeness of the crushing and overwhelming proof on that subject. It has leaked out that already since Trumbull's terrible exposure of Douglas' falsehood and treachery, more than two dozen letters have been written to him by his followers, from this place, entreating him to clear up that matter if possible. He can't do it. Numbers of his own followers here who still say they will vote for him as a necessity, declare him to be the most corrupt politician in the State, and destitute of truth and honor!—How low a public man must have fallen when even his friends are compelled to speak thus of him. Mr Trumbull has done a good work in old Morgan. He leaves the Douglas party in fragments, wherever he goes. The universal feeling now is that he must not fail to visit Cass and Scott counties. After he had spoken with such tremendous effect here, the Douglasites, in their sore extremity, sent in great haste for Col. McClernand of your city to come and address their County Convention on Saturday, and make one desperate effort still to keep the party together if possible.

He was especially implored to explain away the terrible array of proofs Trumbull had given in regard to the Toombs bill and the conspiracy of Douglas and others, with the majority of the Judges of the Supreme Court, to extend slavery all over our country and its free Territories, but in vain. The Colonel's speech consisted of scraps from obscure newspapers, (many of them from our little Sentinel,) pasted together and learned by heart with vast labor, and then declaimed in the bombastic style of a stilted spread eagle school boy. He had nothing committed to memory in reply to Trumbull, and so dodged what was wanted entirely. But the leaders dared not let the matter pass so, and called him back to the stand, telling him that they wanted him to answer Trumbull's charges and asking him questions to help him, and especially about the Toombs bill. The Colonel tried, but broke down completely, and retired wretchedly mortified. The matter had evidently been rehearsed between him and the leaders, but he had not learned it by heart, and his memory and his courage both forsook him.—His friends tried to rally him, but it was of no use. As the last desperate chance, the president of the convention, Jim Gordon, asked him how Trumbull had voted on the admission of Oregon, and why. Old Jim winked to his friends, as much as to say, "Now he'll go it; I've given him a lift;" but McClernand hung down his head and said, "I don't know how he voted, nor why; I am sorry I don't remember;" and left the room in shame. To show their sense of his services, the convention soon after instructed their delegates to vote on the 9th of September for Harris for Congress, and not for McClernand. As soon as the Colonel heard of this, he vanished, and has not been heard of since His few friends fear that he may commit suicide. We all look for Lincoln with great interest, and shall give him a rousing welcome. Three fifths of our people are for him to-day, and he gains every hour.

The Democrats here renominated Cyrus Epler for the Legislature. J. S. Hicks is their candidate for Sheriff, and many of his own party say he is bound to be beaten.

Our side will send to the Legislature Cyrus Mathews, Esq., an old citizen, who is universally popular both in Morgan and Scott. We have a dozen aspirants for Sheriff, but our County Convention on Sept. 11th will make all right.

AGUE BALSAM,

UNRIVALLED IN THE HISTORY OF Medicine. This Balsam, that has been so extensively sold and met with such unrivalled success for the past five years, and brought health and happiness to many families throughout the Western Country, is the result of years of study and experiment, by the proprietors of this Wonderful Compound; and we are happy to state to the world that the object sought for has been gained, which is found in the numerous evidences in favor of this remedy. This Balsam is only recommended for one class of diseases, viz: those produced by malaria, and enters directly into the circulation, and thereby counteracts the poison of malaria in the system; and as a tonic it is particularly recommended. Now for a few evidences:

OBERLIN, Ohio, June 1st, 1858.
Messrs. S. K. Mann & Co.—Gents: Having had occasion to use some of your Ague Balsam in my family, I find it the most prompt and efficient remedial agent for the certain cure of ague ever used, and as a strengthening tonic I think it has no equal. Your Obedient Servant,
SAMUEL HENDRY.

OLNEY, Ill., Sept. 20, 1857.
Messrs. S. K. Mann & Co.—Gents: Your Ague Balsam is the only remedy that seems to meet the wants of the people of this locality. We have upon our shelves all the popular remedies of the day for the cure of intermittents, but Dr. Mann's Balsam sells in preference to all others, from the simple fact it cures. It is destined to excel all other remedies ever offered. Truly yours,
G. W. HAYNIE.

Dr. Mann & Co., Galion, Ohio.—Gents: Your Ague Balsam is the peoples' own remedy, in this part of the country, for the cure of ague and fever. We have never known it to fail in any case when properly used. It is looked upon as a perfect antidote to malarious diseases.
Very truly yours, REED & PETTIJOHN.
Cairo, Ill., May 15th, 1858.

ST. LOUIS, June 1st, 1858.
Messrs. S. K. Mann & Co.—We find the demand for Dr. Mann's Ague Balsam daily increasing, and the great demand for it is a sufficient evidence of its great merit. In all places in our travels we find the universal opinion of those selling it, and more particularly those using it, to be, that it has no equal in proprietary remedies, and that it is a certain specific is a fact that cannot be disputed.
Truly yours, O. J. WOOD & CO.

ONE DOLLAR
WILL BUY
ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE AND Liver Medicines now before the public, namely Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator, or Liver Remedy, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder and more effective than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the liver, to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels, to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it, and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

Some idea of the strength of these gums may be formed when it is known that one bottle of the Invigorator contains as much strength as one hundred doses of calomel, without any of its deleterious effects.

Though possessing rare medical powers, these gums have been but little known to physicians, and never used in their prescriptions until used in the form of the Invigorator, which met with such unprecedented success as to induce the proprietor to offer it as a family medicine tried and known in its effects. It has rarely ever failed to cure Liver Complaints in their worst forms.

Indigestion being caused by a deranged liver is cured when the liver is excited to action.

Jaundice is caused by an improper action of the liver, and as a proof that the Invigorator relieves this disease, let any one troubled with Jaundice take the Invigorator regularly one week, and their skin will begin to assume its original color.

Costiveness can be permanently cured by the Invigorator. Take it in small doses on retiring, and it assists nature in her operations. By gradually diminishing the dose, the bowels are left in a healthy and active state, and work as regularly as clock work.

Sick Headache is very soon relieved by taking a double dose of the Invigorator, which corrects all acidity and sourness of the stomach.

For an overloaded stomach it has no equal, as it relieves all oppressive or uneasy feeling after eating heartily. For a family medicine generally, all who use it speak in the highest terms.

Dr. Sanford's Invigorator came to us recommended as a cure for Liver Complaints and all diseases arising from a diseased liver. The testimonials of so many of our Physicians in its favor, induced us to try it, and now conviction is certain that it is one of the greatest blessings ever given to dyspeptics, for it made a complete cure before the first bottle was taken, and now we can eat any thing edible without trouble, while before nothing but the lightest food would digest, and often that gave pain. Now what we want to say to all our readers is, if Liver Complaint or Dyspepsia trouble you, do not fail to try this, the greatest remedy in the world.—State Post

We take infinite pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventative for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever and all Fevers of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

There has never been tried in our family a remedy which has met with such unbounded success in the cure of diseases incident to children, as Dr. Sanford's Invigorator; nor is it alone for diseases of children that we use it; for it acts as a Cathartic so mildly and gently and serves to renovate the system so thoroughly, that we think we are doing a service to all in advising them, when they need medicine, to try this remedy. There are cases that have come under our notice where great benefit has been received in diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels, where all other remedies failed to give relief. It has become so useful in our family that we will not be without it.—Jacksonville, Ala., Republican.

This staunch friend of Agriculture has entered upon the new year with the most substantial evidences of its growing favor with the public. It has been greatly enlarged and otherwise much improved, and well deserves the name of being at once the neatest, cheapest and best conducted Farmers' paper in Illinois. The Illinois Farmer possesses superior advantages over any of its rivals, and being published in the heart of the most rich and densely populated portion of the State, it is evident that it must take the lead of all others. We desire to make the Farmer truly the organ of the Agricultural classes, and if they will foster and encourage it, in return it will battle for their rights, and keep them fully posted with the most reliable intelligence which can be gained concerning their interests.

ILLINOIS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

LOCATED AT ALTON, ILLINOIS.—Chartered February 23d, 1839—Organized April 4th, 1839

Amount of premium notes in force, February 1st, 1856, constituting a fund for the payment of losses, $79,537 41, secured by a lien on property insured, valued at over $7,000,000.

This company insures dwellings, stores, warehouses, manufactories, mills, barns, stables, and the contents of each together with every other similar species of property within the State, from loss or damage by fire. The Directors feel justified in recommending this company to the favorable consideration of the citizens of Illinois. Every one insured becomes a member, the company being an association of customers—each of whom is concerned in insuring his neighbor. As the indemnification fund augments in exact ratio with the increase for risks, the capital of the company is comparatively exhaustless; and the entire safety of the institution must be apparent to every one who reads the charter.

The cost of insuring in this company is so low, as to render it almost inexcusable for the owners of insurable property not to avail themselves of its protection.

Items for Farmers

AND ALL THOSE INTERESTED IN HORSES AND CATTLE.

The Great Pennsylvania Remedy!

ONE OF THE MOST VALUABLE MEDICINES saved from our late fire is the "The Great Pennsylvania Condition Powder,"

so well known and established in this part of the country. Sufficient to say that, notwithstanding the puffing of other "Horse Powders" in the papers, the experience of our farmers fully corroborate all we can say in regard to it.

See to it, farmers and horsemen!

It is every man's duty not only to take care of his family, but of his horses. He has been given to us for our service, usefulness and pleasure; it is therefore highly essential that we should protect so willing and devoted a servant. The spring and summer campaign is near at hand, the horse must do the labor. Thousands and tens of thousands of dollars depend on that noble animal.

Then, take care of him, Mr. FARMER as you value your crop; see that he is in good condition; let him go forth to the plow head and tail up, having a good appetite, not hide-bound, but full of energy to do the great work, every hair on his hide in the right place.

CIDER VINEGAR—A PURE ARTICLE, Just received and for sale by W. LAVELY.

Office of the Illinois Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

ALTON, December 7, 1857.

THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE IS COPIED from the Annual Report of the Directors to the Members of the Illinois Mutual Fire Insurance Company, made April 2d, 1857:

"The Total Annual Installments of the Company for the eighteen years ending April 1, 1857, have been, on an average, a fraction less than 7¾ per cent. per annum, on the Premium Notes.

"The average annual cost upon each $100 insured, has been as follows:

On property rated at	4	per cent	$ 31	cents.
" "	6	"	46½	"
" "	8	"	62	"
" "	10	"	77½	"
" "	12	"	93	"
" "	15	"	1 16 1-5	"
" "	20	"	1 55	"

"The cost in the intermediate and higher classes has been proportionate with the foregoing rates.

"Compared with Stock rates, the cost per annum in the seven classes named, will range from less than a third of one per cent., to a fraction over one and a half per cent., on the amount insured." (Being a saving of from twenty-five to fifty per cent. over Stock Company charges.)

"The Directors of this Company would call the attention of the owners of insurable property in Illinois, to the inducements the Company have to offer for their especial patronage.

1st. The rates of premium are lower than those charged by any foreign Stock Company—for the reason that the Company has no bonus to pay to the holders of Stock—but have only to meet losses and expenses.

2d. The stability that Insurance by this Company affords. Its Capital is not affected by the fluctuations in the value of Bank and Railroad Stocks,—neither is it transferable at the pleasure of the Directors. But it is a real capital, amounting to over Eight Hundred Thousand Dollars,* secured upon Real Estate owned by the assured, and worth ten times the amount. This Capital is held positively, and not fictitiously, for the payment of Losses—augmenting as the risks increase.

3d. Its prompt and equitable adjustment of Losses, and the facility with which Insurance may be effected through the numerous agents of the Company, one of whom may be found in every City, Town or County in the State.

4th. The long period that the Illinois Mutual has transacted business, has secured it such an extensive patronage in this State, as to render its permanence and security unquestionable; It is free from the dangers and fluctuations attending those companies whose transactions are spread over a number of States, relying upon their profits for the payment of losses. Look to the ability of the Company you insure with, as one of the vital essentials of real insurance. The Illinois Mutual guarantees a SURE INDEMNITY IN CASE OF LOSS." M. G. ATWOOD, Secretary.

*On the 1st of December, 1857, the Capital of the Company, for the payment of losses, amounted to $921,869 09; and will probably reach a Million of Dollars by the close of the present fiscal year. dec18

MANNY & CO.'S REAPER AND MOWER

THIS MACHINE HAS NOW OBTAINED indisputed superiority, (as a combined reaper and mower) over every other of the kind, and having stood the test of both Europe and America, carrying with it the laurels of success and renown, needs no further recommendation than from those amongst us who have purchased machines and tried them. Certificates can be seen at my office, at any time, and to which I invite the attention of farmers and parties wishing to purchase. For sale by B. F. FOX, Agent,

SINGER'S SEWING MACHINES.

GREAT SUCCESS IS ALWAYS THE most conclusive proof of great merit. Judged by this test, there is no labor-saving machine before the public comparable to Singer's Sewing Machines. After establishing a highest reputation in the United States, they were exhibited at the late "Exposition Universelle" in France, where they carried off the highest premium; and a great manufactory to make them has been built in Paris.

IN EVERY BRANCH OF INDUSTRY

in which sewing is to be done, these machines can be used with immense profit. As the speed of the Railway train is to traveling on foot, so is sewing with Singer's Machines compared with hand-sewing. No tailor, shoemaker, dressmaker, carriage trimmer, saddler, hatter, &c., &c., should be without one. The fair profit of using one of these machines, regularly employed, is

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS A YEAR.

In all private families where there is much sewing to be done these machines are an invaluable assistance. Planters and hotel keepers find them particularly convenient and profitable. These machines are simple in their construction and very strong and durable, being the only kind of Sewing Machine ever made, by which every sort of work, coarse or fine, could be perfectly executed. Thousands of inferior and worthless Sewing Machines have been made and sold under various names, but Singer's Machines alone have been found everywhere to satisfy the wants of the public.

Plain printed instructions for using, are sent with each machine, from which any one can readily acquire the art of managing them. The machines are packed securely to go to any part of the world. To all persons desiring more particular information we will, on application by letter at either of our offices, forward a copy of I. M. Singer & Co's Gazette, a paper wholly devoted to the Sewing Machine interest.

BENJAMIN F. FOX,

HARDWARE MERCHANT, SPRINGfield, Ill., Agent for the improved
LITTLE GIANT CORN AND COB MILL.

The Little Giant has now been used extensively, for more than two years, with a success unparalleled in similar implements. First premiums have invariably been accorded it at the State Fairs from Missouri to Georgia, whenever exhibited. The world is confidently challenged to equal or excel the same, for general and successful farm or plantation use.

Persons in want of a mill for preparing feed for stock, are invited to take one of these mills and try it, in comparison with any other kind of mill for the same purpose. If they are not found to do twenty five per cent more work, and do it equally as well, if not better, with the same or less power, no charge will be made for the mill. Orders solicited.

PATENT METALLIC ROOFING.

AN IMPROVEMENT UPON THE ENGlish galvanized Iron, combining advantages that no other roofing material does, viz: perfectly rust proof, fire and water proof, costing about the same as tin, and requiring no paint. It makes the COOLEST ROOF, as the polished surface reflects the heat; for the same reason it is less liable to expansion and contraction than other metallic roofs. It will last a life time, without decay, as it derives its lasting qualities from a preservative power occasioned by a constant electric excitation, completely preventing oxydation.

I challenge invention to produce metallic roofing material so neat, durable and cheap.

My stock is the best Juniata charcoal iron, made from blooms warranted to work for or against the grain. Its reputation for tenacity is well known. This metal is used as a substitute for iron, zinc, tin, copper, &c., wherever durability is needed. Its appliances are various, and it is invaluable for Roofing, Guttering, Spouting, Tubing, Cornices, Roof Iron, Sheeting, Chimney Stacks, Pipes, Car Roofing, &c.

I will furnish information and estimates to those desiring. All orders for galvanized manufactured articles promptly attended to. P. A. DORWIN,

LAW SCHOOL OF THE UNIVERSITY
at Cambridge, Mass.

The Instructors in this School are
Hon. JOEL PARKER, LL.D., Royal Professor.
Hon. THEOPHILUS PARSONS, LL.D., Dane Professor.
Hon. EMORY WASHBURN, LL.D., University Professor.

THE COURSE OF INSTRUCTION EMbraces the various branches of the Common Law; and of Equity; Admiralty; Commerce, International and Constitutional Law; and the Jurisprudence of the United States. The Law Library consists of about 14,000 volumes, and as new works appear, they are added, and every effort is made to render it complete.

Instruction is given by oral lectures and expositions, (and by recitations and examinations, in connection with them,) of which there are ten every week. Two Moot Courts are also holden in each week, at each of which a cause, previously given out, is argued by four students, and an opinion delivered by the Presiding Instructor. Rooms and other facilities are also provided for the Club Courts; and an Assembly is held weekly for practice in debate, and acquiring a knowledge of parliamentary law and proceedings.

Students may enter the School in any stage of their professional studies or mercantile pursuits, and at the commencement of either term, or in the middle, or other part of a term. They are at liberty to select what studies they will pursue, according to their view of their own wants and attainments.

The Academical year, which commences on Tuesday, six weeks after the third Wednesday in July, is divided into two terms, of twenty weeks each, with a vacation of six weeks at the end of each term.

During the Winter vacation, the Library is opened, warmed and lighted for the use of the members of the School.

The exercises of the next term will commence on Monday, Sept. 6, 1858.

Applications for admission, or for Catalogues, or any further information, may be made to either of the Professors at Cambridge.
